Introduction

The Naval War College's Naval Historical Collection contains the College archives, manuscript collections, and oral histories that document the history of the institution, the navy in Narragansett Bay, and naval warfare. Women's papers are found in both the manuscript collections and manuscript items while the oral history collection contains their personal stories.

The guide is divided into four sections: manuscripts, manuscript items, oral histories, and reminiscences. The entries are identified by name, date, collection number, and contain descriptions of content. Access to these collections is unrestricted.

The vast majority of manuscript material consists of personal papers, including letters, reminiscences, booklets, newspaper clippings, certificates, other miscellany, and photographs of navy wives or WAVES who served in World War II. The oral histories, for the most part, document the service of women who served in the WAVES, the Navy Nurse Corps, the SPARS, and Marine Corps Women's Reserve (WR) during the Second World War. Several oral histories treat civilian life during World War II from the perspective of women who worked for the U.S. Navy in various capacities.

Publication of this guide will acquaint scholars and researchers in women's history with the sources contained in the Naval Historical Collection that heretofore have not been widely known; hopefully, it will stimulate research in these collections.

The Naval Historical Collection is located in Mahan Hall at the Naval War College in Newport, RI 02841-1207. Department hours are Monday–Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The curator can be reached by phone, 401-841-2435; fax, 401-841-7790; and E-mail, cherpake@nwc.navy.mil.

Ms. Coll. 26 Miles, Wilma S. Jerman, 1904–1996; Papers, 1923–1973

Born in Washington, D.C., Wilma Miles was a 1925 graduate of Cornell University. She married Ensign Milton E. Miles in Hong Kong in September 1925 and lived there for two years while he was assigned to a gunboat on the West and Pearl Rivers. From 1936 to 1939 she and her three sons lived in Chefoo, China, and Manila, PI, while her husband was on USS Black Hawk. She spent several months traveling through Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies in 1937. In 1939, the family left China over the Burma Road. Her papers consist of letters to her mother during both of her residences in China with descriptions of her daily routine, travels, and impressions of Chinese life. There are letters from her husband as well. She wrote vignettes of life in China during the 1920s and 1930s, including both adult and children’s versions of their journey over the Burma Road. The collection contains her autobiography and a biography of her husband’s life through 1939.

During the years 1951 to 1956, the Mileses traveled extensively in Latin America as Rear Admiral Miles was commanding officer of the Fifteenth Naval District in Panama. The collection contains notes, itineraries, and correspondence regarding trips to Chile, Paraguay, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Brazil, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Mexico, Panama, Uruguay, Argentina, Venezuela, Bolivia, Nicaragua, and a trip up the Amazon River. Notes on trips to Morocco, Greece, Italy, Libya, and Turkey can be found here as well as maps, guidebooks, and tourist literature.

The Mileses were amateur photographers and a photographic record of their travels worldwide is contained in albums along with individual prints and negatives. The places included are: Afghanistan, Bali, Bangkok, Chefoo, Greece, Egypt, Hong Kong, India, Indo-China, Java, Japan, North Africa, Turkey, Peking, the Philippines, Shanghai, Taiwan, the Burma Road, Belgium, England, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Scandinavia, Spain, Alaska, Bolivia, Canada, Greenland, Costa Rica, Cuba, Mexico, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Guatemala, Ecuador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Peru, and the San Blas Islands.

Reminiscences

Alsmeyer, Marie Bennett, 1923–; Reminiscences, 1943–1946, 1 item, 6pp.

WAVE in World War II. Youth was spent in Falfurrias, Tex., where she graduated from high school. Attended Texas A&M University in Kingsville for a year where she studied journalism. Enlisted in the Navy in April 1943, and attended U.S. Naval Training School (WR) in Bronx, N.Y., for three weeks. Joined the Hospital Corps, trained at Long Beach Naval Hospital and then was stationed at Oak Knoll Naval Hospital, Oakland, Calif., in the Pathology Department for three years. Thrilled when the war was over. Discharged in Memphis in 1945, she returned to Texas where she attended the University of Texas on the GI Bill. Married, had a family, and wrote three books: The Way of the WAVES, Old WAVES' Tales, and Six Years After D-Day: Cycling through Europe. Service in the WAVES was a positive experience for her.

Baier, Dorothy V. Blair, 1921–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 7 items, 10pp.

WAVE in World War II. Her youth was spent on farms in Nebraska and Idaho. Graduated from Boise High School in 1938, attended Boise Junior College and the College of Idaho, where she graduated in 1941 with a teaching degree. Taught high school in Fairfield, Idaho, until she enlisted in the Navy in November 1943. Attended basic training at Hunter College in New York City for six weeks, where she was a member of the singing platoon. After attending aerial gunnery school in Pensacola, Fla., was transferred to NAS Banana River, Fla., where she was one of the first WAVES at Air Bomber's Training Unit (ABTU) for eighteen months. Was a bombardier instructor and the first female to drop a bomb from an airplane. Was discharged in 1945 from NAS Banana River due to her first pregnancy. After the war she had a family, taught school at various stations, and retired in 1982. Her husband served in the Navy for thirty years. She and the other three WAVES bombardier instructors still keep in touch. Service in the WAVES was a great experience for her. Copies of photographs and newspaper articles included.

Battani, May N. Giuricich, 1923–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945; 11 items, 5pp.

WAVE in World War II. Her youth was spent in Long Beach, N.Y., where she graduated from high school. She attended Woods Business School, where she trained to be a secretary. She enlisted in the Navy in February 1943 and began basic training at Hunter College in New York City. Was stationed at NAS Corpus Christi, Tex., six weeks later as a Petty Officer Third Class working for a Marine Corps colonel. She was very active in sports on the base and traveled to Army bases to compete against WAC teams. She was discharged from NAS Corpus Christi in 1945 and would have reenlisted if she had known it was possible. Married, had a family, and worked as a secretary. Attended numerous WAVES reunions. Questionnaire, copies of photographs, newspaper clippings, letters, and certificates included.

Bedsole, Virginia Bieneck, 1920–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 9 items, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. She grew up in Indiana and graduated from Hughes Hill School in Silverton, Ind., in 1936. Studied for two years at the University of Cincinnati before enlisting in the Navy in 1943. In February she reported to the WAVES Training Center at Hunter

College in Bronx, N.Y., and then went on to the Yeoman School in Stillwater, Okla. Assigned to the Personnel Department at NAS San Diego for eighteen months. Was then among the first group of WAVES to go to Hawaii, where she worked in the NAS Honolulu Public Relations Department. A story about WAVES coming to Hawaii, along with her picture, was on the front pages of the Honolulu Advertiser and Hawaiian Life magazine. Discharged in Honolulu in 1945, she returned home, married, and became a Navy spouse. Original photographs and copies of newspaper clippings included.

Bennett, Jeane Morrison, 1917–; Reminiscences, 1942–1945, 2 items, 2pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Massachusetts; her father was a Mayflower descendent. Graduated from Lasell Seminary in 1935 and Colby Junior College in New Hampshire in 1937. Was a secretary before enlisting in the Navy in September 1942. Attended Yeoman classes at Oklahoma A&M in Stillwater and graduated as a Yeoman Third Class in 1943. She went on to Midshipman's School at Columbia University, married, and was then stationed at NAS Jacksonville with her husband. She was a secretary for the telephone and radio officers. She was discharged as a Yeoman Second Class in the summer of 1944 due to pregnancy. The Navy was a positive experience for her and she still stays in contact with many other WAVES.

Black, Helen Yvonne Langan, 1922–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 2 items, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. Her youth was spent in Odell, Ill., where she graduated from St. Paul High School in 1940. Enlisted in the Navy in May 1943 and attended boot camp at Hunter College in New York. Assigned to the Hospital Corps at Great Lakes, Ill., and trained as a Pharmacist's Mate. Was then stationed at Camp Elliot, Calif., as a Pharmacist's Mate. Discharged from Camp Elliot in 1945, married, and had seven children. Had a wonderful time in the Navy and still attends WAVES reunions.

Bloomfield, Maralee M. Laufman, 1918–; Reminiscences, 1944–1948, 13 items, 6pp.

WASP and WAVE in World War II. Her youth was spent in the Cleveland/Akron, Ohio, area, where she graduated from East High School in 1936. Attended Kent State University for one and a half years and then worked various jobs. In 1942, she started taking flying lessons and joined the Civil Air Patrol in Ohio. Applied to the WASP program and was accepted for pilot training in Sweetwater, Tex., in August 1943. She trained until November and when she did not pass her check ride she was discharged. Two months later she enlisted in the Navy and attended boot camp at Hunter College in New York. Was selected to attend Air Traffic Controller school at NAS Atlanta, Ga., and was one of the first WAVES to be stationed at Rodd Field, NAS Corpus Christi, Tex. In 1945, when Rodd Field closed, she was transferred to NAS Kingsville where she became an Air Controlman Chief. Was discharged, did not like civilian life, and reenlisted within a month. She was stationed again in Corpus Christi where she worked in the Control Tower, trained her future husband, and married him. They lived in base housing at Cuddihy Field until they both were discharged in August 1948. They moved back to Ohio where she worked as a slide librarian for the General Electric Company. Her time in the military was very positive and she would encourage any young woman to join the Navy. Items include an interview, original photograph, copies of meal tickets, pay receipts, shoe and uniform vouchers, official letters, and photographs.

Bregal, Rita Houlberg, 1918–; Reminiscences, 1942–1945, 17 items, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was raised in Brooklyn, N.Y., and Sherman, Conn. Graduated from New Milford High School in 1934 and attended Danbury Teacher's College in Connecticut for one year. She enlisted in 1942 in New York and attended boot camp in Cedar Falls, Iowa. Attended Naval Air Technical Training Center in Memphis, Tenn., for a rating as an Aviation Machinist's Mate and served as a platoon leader. During a parade in Memphis, she led the second platoon of WAVES stationed there. While stationed as an aviation machinist at Rodd Field in Corpus Christi, Tex., she was an active member of the chorus and musical production group. After she was discharged in 1945, she married an Army officer, became a secretary, and moved back to Sherman, Conn. In 1989, they retired and moved to Sun City, Nev. Her experience as a WAVE was positive and she is still very active in various WAVES organizations. Copies of letters, newspaper articles, and photographs included.

Brooks, Anna Elisabeth Kipp, 1924–; Reminiscences, 1944–1946, 12 items, 6pp.

WAVE in World War II. Her youth was spent in Union City, N.J., where she graduated from Emerson High School in 1941. She attended John Marshall College, a two-year college, in Jersey City, N.J., and graduated in 1942. While she was in college, her sister Mildred became a RN and served in the Army Nurse Corps. Enlisted in the Navy in June 1944. After boot camp at Hunter College in New York, she was sent to Naval Radio Training School in Oxford, Ohio. She had classes in typing, radio procedure, and Morse code. Obtained a fox certificate in January 1945 and was transferred to Washington, D.C., to work at the Navy's Main Shore Station. There read, typed, and sent teletype and Morse code messages. Had mixed feelings about the end of the war. Knew it meant she would be leaving the service soon. Was discharged in March 1946, and attended Rutgers University in New Jersey, graduating in 1948. Married in 1949 and spent many years as a mother to five children, a social group worker, and a social case worker in New Jersey. Items included are an interview, original photographs, letters, and radio passes.

Cagney, Mary V. Lauer, 1920–; Reminiscences, 1943–1944, 2 items, 5pp.

WAVE in World War II. Her youth was spent in Dorchester, Mass., where she graduated from Dorchester High School for Girls in 1938. She enlisted in January 1943 and was sworn in at the recruiting office in Boston, Mass. Her initial training was at Hunter College in New York. She then transferred to the Communication Annex in Washington, D.C., where she learned to read schematic sheets in order to set up machines. Felt this job was routine and boring and did not like the required security. Even though she did not enjoy this billet, she did enjoy her time as a WAVE. Was discharged in June 1944 due to pregnancy. She married while in Washington, D.C., and had six children. She is still active in WAVES organizations. Items included are an interview and a photograph.

Call, Dorothy Riehle, 1923–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 10 items, 2pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born in 1923 and raised in Cresco, Iowa. The town boasted five admirals and this encouraged her to enlist in the Navy in 1943 after she had graduated from Cresco High School. She trained at Hunter College in New York and was assigned to Yeoman School in Stillwater, Okla. After completing her training she was transferred to the Bureau of Aeronautics in Washington, D.C., where she was assigned to the Engineering Division, Experimental Section. She served as a courier, physically carrying secret material to and from offices and departments. From there, she worked at WAVE headquarters, in D.C., where she met her future husband. They were married in 1945. Was discharged in August of 1945 and attended college at Indiana University on the GI Bill. Had three children and became a teacher, retiring in 1983. Her Navy experience gave her self-confidence. Items included are an interview, newspaper, copies of personal letters, copies of certificates, and a copy of a BuAer log.

Cassanos, Helen Lynch, 1921–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 20 items, 13pp.

WAVE in World War II. She spent her childhood years in St. Joseph, Mo., where she graduated from the Academy of the Sacred Heart in 1939. Attended Junior College in St. Joseph and Mt. St. Scholastica College in Atchison, Kans., graduating in 1943. Enlisted in the U.S. Navy in August 1943 and became part of the first unit, nicknamed the Pony Express, to go through boot camp together at Hunter College in New York. Liked the WAVE uniform. Was assigned to the Link Trainer School at Atlanta, Ga., for three months, where she took classes on the history of the link, how it worked, and how to “fly” the link. She was transferred to NAS Corpus Christi, Tex., and NAS Kingsville, Tex., where she was in the instrument phase of training and then became part of the instrument squadron. As a Link Trainer Instructor, taught the cadets the basic procedures for their instrument flights. Was discharged from Kingsville. Went to graduate school and worked in the social work field and got married. Had a positive experience serving in the WAVES and has given great details concerning her housing arrangements. Items include: nineteen photographs, newspaper clipping, and interview.

Clements, Dorothy Dill, 1924–; Reminiscences, 1944–1946, 1 item, 1pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Lexington, Ohio, and received her GED. Enlisted in 1944 and attended boot camp at Hunter College, New York City. From there, she was assigned to NAS Pensacola, Fla., where she worked in the Parachute Loft, issuing parachutes to instructors and cadets. Promoted to storekeeper and was discharged on May 16, 1946, and was married the next day. After the war she worked for the Department of Agriculture for twenty-four years. She enjoyed her time in the Navy and is a member of WAVES National.

Clifford, Mary Faul, 1917–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 8 items, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. She grew up in northwestern Pennsylvania and graduated from Kane High School. After enlisting in the U.S. Navy in May 1943, she attended Hunter College in New York for basic training. She was transferred to Madison, Wis., for Radio Operator School. Once she passed her exams she was sent to Norfolk, Va. Discharged in November 1945. The WAVES experience was a wonderful one. It gave her confidence and independence, and broadened her horizons. After leaving the Navy she married a man she met in Norfolk, had five children, and retired from the work force. Items include photograph, newspaper clippings, comics, and interview.

Clough, Jeanne Thompson, 1922–; Reminiscences, 1944–1945, 25 items, 8pp.

WAVE in World War II. She spent her youth in Cleveland, Ohio, and graduated from Cleveland Extension High School in 1944. She had five brothers who served in World War II, her mother and father in World War I, her great-uncle Harry Thompson in the Spanish-American War, her great-grandfather Edward Thompson in the Civil War in the Union Army, and her great-great-great-grandfather served in the War of 1812. Her family was very supportive of her enlisting in the military. Originally, she enlisted with the Marines in May of 1944, but their quotas had already been met, so in August they allowed her to join the WAVES instead. Received her basic training and indoctrination at Hunter College in New York. She joined the Medical Corps and trained at Bethesda Naval Hospital in Maryland and then transferred to NAS Corpus Christi in Texas. She married one of her patients in January of 1945 and was discharged in June. She still carries on her family's military tradition with her association with WAVES. Items included are photographs, copies of photographs, newspaper article, copies of newspaper articles, copies of certificates, orders, and letters.

Crisler, Otho Pearle Cooley, 1923–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 11 items, 5pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Pittsburg, Tex., and graduated from Pittsburg High School in 1940. She could not afford college so she went to Dallas to find a job. She signed up with the National Youth Administration and went to radio school where she learned how to assemble radios. She liked the WAVES motto so she decided to join and was sworn in May 1943. Rode a troop train with many other girls headed for boot camp at Hunter College in New York. After six weeks of boot camp, she headed for Aviation Machinist Mates School in Norman, Okla. While she was in school she and a friend went down the hall to spend time with a couple of Air Force men. They were caught by shore patrol, arrested, and put on restriction for sixty days. She was transferred to work on the airplane the "Yellow Peril" at NAS Dallas, Tex. She left that job after being wrongfully accused of causing a crash and went on to work in the Radio Shop. She was reassigned to NAS Norman, Okla., to work on the flight line. She married in March of 1945 and was discharged in July due to pregnancy. After her time in the Navy, she raised six children and worked in the civil service for fifteen years. Items include photographs and an interview.

Diming, Ellen, 1921–; Reminiscences, 1944–1946, 3 items, 2pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born in Newfoundland and grew up in Boston, Mass. After she graduated from Roxbury Memorial High School in 1939, she attended Bridgewater State College and received her B.S. in Education in 1943. She enlisted in the Navy in 1944 and was disappointed that she could not get into Officer Candidate School due to failing an eye exam. She attended boot camp at Hunter College, New York, and stayed there to train recruits. Once boot camp closed, she was transferred to Manhattan Towers in New York and worked discharging WAVES. She was discharged in May of 1946 and enrolled in Harvard Graduate School of Education on the GI Bill. Items included are an interview and letters.

Dixon, Mary Knugle, 1920–; Reminiscences, 1944–1964, 8 items, 34pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Youngstown, Ohio, and graduated from Struthers High School in 1938 and College of Wooster in 1942 with a B.S. in Geology.

She enlisted in the Navy in 1944 and attended Hunter College in New York for basic training. She had additional training at NAS Lakehurst, N.J., in aviation issues: meteorology, instruments, decoding, and weather. Her first job as an Aerographer was at NAS Corpus Christi, Tex. While there, she witnessed German prisoners of war being brought in and lived in the barracks next door to them. Was able to fly aboard in a PBY, minus guns, in order to record the weather. Returned to Lakehurst for more advanced training and from there she was stationed at Moffet Field, Calif., and Fleet Weather Central San Francisco, which later moved to NAS Alameda. While at NAS Alameda was promoted to Chief. Transferred to NAS Seattle and forecasted the weather. Was disappointed to find out she had been moved to the Fleet Weather Control Center in Suitland, Md., where she plotted and analyzed maps. Took exams for E-8 and passed, leading her to become one of the first women to be part of a Leadership program under BuPers. Was able to travel all over the United States and stayed with the program for over one year. Her last duty station was Lakehurst again, this time as the Lead Instructor. Retired in May 1964, moved to Tucson, Ariz., got her M.A., and became a school librarian. She is still active in various WAVE organizations. Items included: photograph, photograph copies, stamp, newspaper articles, and interview.

Eckstien, Marion Nelson, 1918–; Reminiscences, 1942–1944, 5 items, 8pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born in Killam, Alberta, Canada, and moved to Tracy, Minn., when she was five. Attended Tracy High School until grade eleven. Enlisted in the Navy in 1942. Was married one week before she received her orders to boot camp at Cedar Falls, Iowa. Was selected to attend the Naval Air Technical Training Center in Norman, Okla. After six months of training was stationed at NAS Livermore, Calif., as an Aviation Mechanic. She did various jobs on the planes and each plane she overhauled she was able to fly in with the pilots. Here she learned basic training and became a pilot. Was transferred to NAS Jacksonville, Fla., where she honed cylinders. Was discharged at Great Lakes Naval Station. After the Navy, she raised children, two of whom joined the Navy as well. Items include: original song sheet of the WAVES, photocopy of discharge, 1944, Christmas Day Dinner menu, and interview.

Ellis, Helen Clanin, 1918–; Reminiscences, 1944–1946, 3 items, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. Her youth was spent in Swayzee, Ind., where she graduated from high school. She attended Ball Teacher's College in Muncie and graduated in 1940 with a degree in teaching. Taught high school for four years before she enlisted in the Navy in 1944. Her basic training was at Hunter College in New York for twelve weeks, and from there she attended a twelve-week gunnery school in Great Lakes, Ill. Her first assignment was at Newport (Rhode Island) Naval Station, teaching pre-commissioning school personnel. Stayed there for one and a half years and was discharged in July 1945. Married a man she met in Newport, went on to school at New York University, and raised three children. She is involved in various WAVE organizations and enjoyed her time in the Navy. Items included are photographs, including one of Capt. Grace Hopper, and an interview.

Emigholz, Virginia, 1913–; Reminiscences, 1943–1946, 2 items, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born, raised, and graduated from high school in Kewanee, Ill. Enlisted as an officer in the Navy in August 1943 and was sent to Smith College and Mount Holyoke College for basic training. Her first and only assignment was at the Naval Code and Signal Lab in Washington, D.C., watching enlisted girls wire the wheels that worked the code machines. Civilians in her office treated the WAVES with the same respect given to men. Was discharged as a Lt. (j.g.) in January 1946. Her naval career was a pleasant and rewarding experience.

Enochs, Dorothy Biddle, ca. 1922–; Reminiscences, 1943–circa 1945, 7 items, 3pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Philadelphia, Pa. Attended Frankford High School and graduated in 1940. Enlisted in the Navy in February 1943 and went directly to basic training for six weeks at Hunter College, New York, in the 3rd regiment. Was selected for Storekeeper School at Indiana University in Bloomington, Ind. Was transferred to Manhattan and trained as an inspector of WAVE uniforms. Her job entailed opening boxes of uniforms and checking them. Did not enjoy this job and was happy to be discharged in 1945. She married and raised a family after getting out of the Navy. Items include: copies of photographs, copies of enlisted uniform requirements, procurement directions, a women's reserve first anniversary booklet, and interview.

Etreim, Caryl Jones, 1920–; Reminiscences, 1943–1946, 1 item, 6pp.

WAVE in World War II. She spent her youth in Hawkeye, Iowa, and graduated from high school in 1938. She then attended Upper Iowa University in Fayette, Iowa, for twelve weeks and obtained a teacher's certificate. After teaching for a few months, went to work for the government at the Iowa Ordnance Plant. Worked in the plant for three years and enlisted in the Navy in June 1943. Attended boot camp at Hunter College, New York, and went on to Storekeeper School in Milledgeville, Ga. Her first job was for one year at the Bureau of Supply and Accounts in Washington, D.C. Transferred to the new Disbursing Center in Great Lakes, Ill., which later became the Special Discharge Disbursement Office. The Navy issued an order saying that anyone signing up for an extra six months would get an automatic raise of one pay grade; she instantly became a Chief. After her discharge, went back to Upper Iowa University on the GI Bill, received her degree in Home Economics and Nutrition, got married, and raised three children on the family farm. Her time as a WAVE was a positive experience. Items included are photographs and an interview.

Eubanks, Alice Keirman, 1920–; Reminiscences, 1942–1945, 1 item, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. She spent her youth in Illinois and graduated from Du Quion Township High School in 1939. Enlisted in the Navy in St. Louis, Mo., on November 6, 1942. Attended Naval Training School in Cedar Falls, Iowa, for six weeks and then transferred to NAS Sand Point in Seattle, Wash.; where she was a chauffeur, a Guard Mail carrier, and a dispatcher. She married an Army man she met in 1944 and then was discharged due to pregnancy on January 8, 1945. After the Navy she worked at a meat-packing plant and later became a dispatcher for the police department. Her experience was a very positive one: "I loved the Navy then and I still do."

Fischer, Leslie, 1917–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 4 items, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Brooklyn, N.Y. She graduated from James Madison High School in Brooklyn in 1935 and then attended Columbia University and New York University. Enlisted in the Navy in December 1943 and received her initial training at Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y. From there, her unit was the first group of WAVES to arrive in Newport, R.I. Spent one and a half years in Newport as a Masters-at-Arms. Was discharged in December 1945. Finished her college degree in Physical Education and worked for a telephone company. She felt very patriotic enlisting as a WAVE. Items include: original photographs, copy of newspaper clipping, and interview.

Fitzgerald, June, 1921–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 2 items, 3pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Andover, Mass., and graduated from Punchard High School in 1939. Since her husband was in the Army National Guard, she enlisted in the Navy in 1943. Attended basic training at Hunter College in New York for three weeks and then went to Lakehurst, N.J., for three months to learn how to pack and repair parachutes. Her first assignment was in Olathe, Kansas, as a Parachute Rigger where she worked on the flight-line handing out parachutes to officers and cadets. After fifteen months she was transferred to Memphis, Tenn., and continued to work as a Parachute Rigger. Discharged in 1945 when her husband arrived home from the war. Attended Essex College, received her Nursing degree, and raised five children. She is grateful for her experience as a WAVE. An interview and original photograph are included.

Folk, Elinor Johnson, 1917–; Reminiscences, 1942–1944, 15 items, 26pp.

WAVE in World War II. Her youth was spent in Long Beach, Calif., where she graduated from Manual Arts High School in 1935. She took college courses at Los Angeles Junior College, University of Southern California, and University of California Los Angeles but did not graduate. She worked as an insurance underwriter before enlisting in the Navy in October 1942. She was in the first group, over 1000, of enlisted WAVES to be sent to basic training at Iowa State Teacher's College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. After six weeks of training she was one of seventy-five chosen to become a Link Trainer instructor. She was given two weeks off since the training facilities at NAS Atlanta were not ready. Upon arriving in Atlanta, quarters for the WAVES were not ready either so all WAVES were housed at the Atlanta Biltmore for the entire time they were there. Since training buildings were not ready the Fox Theatre was used as the Link Training Room. She spent eight weeks learning navigation, radio communication, instrument flying, etc. From there she went to NAS Pensacola where she was one of the first ten enlisted WAVES to be stationed there. She trained cadets and officers, socialized with enlisted Navy men, and thoroughly enjoyed her five months in Pensacola. She was then transferred to the newly completed Whiting Field about forty-five miles away. She spent ten months as a Link Trainer instructor and was transferred again to Sand Point Naval Air Station in Seattle, Wash. She was one of thirty-five WAVES selected to be trained in the technicalities of the Celestial Link Trainer. She was fortunate enough to meet Mildred McAfee twice. After three months in Seattle, she married a Navy man and was discharged in July 1944. After the Navy, she worked for the Red Cross, went back to college, and became a producer, announcer, and newscaster for the Public Radio Station in Nashville, Tenn. Her experience as a WAVE was an extremely positive one. Items included are copies of photographs, including Mildred McAfee and the opening of Whiting Field, copies of newspaper articles, copies of magazine articles, copies of diagrams of Loxley and Foley ranges, and an interview.

Foy, R. Erwin, 1918–; Reminiscences, 1944–1946, 1 item, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Union Point, Greene County, Ga. She graduated in a class of ten from Union Point High School in 1935 and received her Bachelor's Degree from the University of Georgia in 1939. She joined the Navy as an officer in July 1944, and went to Smith College in Northampton, Mass., for twelve weeks of indoctrination. Her first assignment was at the Naval Training Center in Bainbridge, Md., where she gave tests to seamen. She was discharged as a Lt. (j.g.) in January 1946. Her uniform is in the Valentine Museum in Richmond, Va.

Freid, Bernice Sains, 1923–; Reminiscences, 1944–1946, 6 items, 8pp.

WAVE in World War II. Her youth was spent in St. Paul, Minn., where she graduated from Mechanic Arts High School in 1941. Her parents would not sign her enlistment papers, hence she waited until she was twenty-one and enlisted in 1944. Was the only Jewish recruit in her group attending boot camp at Hunter College in New York for six weeks. Was relieved to find out the Navy held Jewish services for Jewish WAVES. Was selected for Yeoman Training School in Stillwater, Okla., and spent two months learning typing, shorthand, and Navy protocol. Was transferred to the 12th Naval District Fleet Post Office in San Francisco, Calif., where she readdressed undeliverable mail. Requested a transfer to the typing section. Was such a skilled typist she was given extra leave to sightsee. After VJ Day, was transferred to the District Passenger Transportation Office. She enjoyed the job and was asked to remain for a promotion to Chief Petty Officer and a choice of any duty station. Requested a discharge in April 1946 because of her desire to go to college. However, she remained in the Naval Reserve until 1958. After the Navy she used the GI Bill to attend New York University and graduated with a B.S. in 1949 and New York City Teacher's College with a M.S. in 1953. Married and had two children. She is still active in WAVE organizations. Photographs, a poem, and an interview are included.

Gailey, Rosalie Bray, 1924–; Reminiscences, 1945–1946, 1 item, 6pp.

WAVE in World War II. Born in Omaha, Neb., and raised in Nebraska. Graduated in 1941 from Hooker County High School in Mullen, Neb., and moved to Long Beach, Calif., to attend Long Beach Junior College. While attending college, worked as a draftsman for the Douglas Aircraft Company. Was accepted to the inactive Naval Reserve in May 1945 and waited for an assignment to active duty. Was sworn in in Los Angeles, Calif., and traveled to Hunter College, New York, for basic training. Was slated to go to Maryland as a draftsman but there was a greater need for clerical workers in the Separation Center in Washington, D.C. Processed the papers of those who were eligible for discharge and typed her own discharge papers in June 1946. Returned to California and used the GI Bill to enroll in the University of California at Los Angeles, where she graduated in 1950 with a degree in Business Administration. She married, had five children, and still keeps in contact with WAVES with whom she served.

Gardner, Jacqueline Bergman, 1922–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 4 items, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. Born and raised in St. Paul, Minn. She graduated from the University of Minnesota laboratory school in 1939 and went on to the University of Minnesota majoring in personnel psychology; she graduated in 1943. Enlisted in the Navy in October, 1943, took the written test for officer training, and began her training courses at Smith College in Northampton, Mass. While she was in Northampton, she and a few other Officers in Training sang Christmas carols at Mrs. Calvin Coolidge's home and were invited in for refreshments. After two months of schooling, she was promoted to ensign and was assigned to Communication School at Mount Holyoke College in South Hadley, Mass., for two months. Transferred briefly to the 13th Naval District Headquarters in Seattle, Wash., working in the Code Room. In May 1944 was permanently stationed at the lighter-than-air base in Tillamook, Oreg., as a Communications Officer. Married another officer in February 1945, who had come home from the South Pacific and had orders to Fort Schuyler, New York. Was transferred there. Requested a discharge because of a pregnancy and it was approved in August 1945. After the war, she and her husband went back to Minnesota and raised three children. She received a Master's Degree in counseling psychology from the University of Minnesota and a Certificate of Advanced Studies in that field at Old Dominion University. Became a guidance counselor in the public schools. She enjoyed being a WAVE. Copies of photographs and an interview are included.

Getchell, Priscilla Chaseat Morrison, 1921–; Reminiscences, 1943–1946, 26 items, 3pp.

WAVE in World War II. Was born in Lowell, Mass., and raised in Norfolk, Mass., where she graduated from high school in 1938. Attended Boston University for one year and then went to Maine to work. In the fall of 1942 she received a letter from Boston University stating they were helping recruit women for the Navy. She enlisted and attended boot camp at Iowa State Teacher's College in Cedar Falls, Iowa, with the second group of WAVE recruits. Was chosen to attend Link Trainer School in Atlanta, Ga., for ten weeks. She graduated in the top ten, which automatically made her an instructor there. Was involved with the WAVE and Station Chorus. She became the leading Petty Officer and requested an overseas tour. She was assigned to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, at CINCPAC. Her job entailed placing maps of airstrips that had been retaken from the Japanese into binders. Was transferred to NAS Kanaohe to run a school for sailors returning and needing new assignments. When thirty-eight Link Trainer instructors arrived at NAS Honolulu they were able to replace the men there and she became Chief. She taught Cross Country Navigation. She was discharged in January 1945. After the Navy, she got married, had nine children—six of whom served in the military—went back to college, and became a guidance counselor. Items included are: photographs, copies of photographs, copies of newspaper articles, copies of certificates, and copies of uniform vouchers and sales slips.

Giese, Anna Marie Bauer, 1923–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 1 item, 5pp.

WAVE in World War II. Her youth was spent in Pittsburg, Pa., where she graduated from high school in 1941. She worked as a secretary at a grain company before she enlisted in 1943. She traveled to Hunter College in New York for six weeks of basic training. Was chosen for the Medical Corps and went to Great Lakes Naval Station in Illinois for another six weeks of training. Transferred to the Naval Air Station at Peru, Ind., where she worked in the dispensary typing medical records. She requested to go overseas and was sent to Honolulu, Hawaii, where she worked at Hospital 128. Attended to many of the casualties from the fighting on the other islands in the Pacific. Discharged in 1945, married, raised five children, and settled in Arkansas.

Grinsel, Charlotte Louise, 1918–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 1 item, 3pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Milwaukee, Wis., and graduated from North Division High School in 1936. She attended classes at Milwaukee State Teachers College and Lacrosse State Teachers College, but when it became too expensive she went to work for the Milwaukee County Institution. Enlisted in the Navy in 1943 and attended basic training at Hunter College in New York. Needed no additional training for Ships Company. Transferred to Armed Guard School at Camp Shelton in Norfolk, Va., where she was the Masters-at-Arms of the WAVES barracks and in charge of WAVES recreation for one year. She then became the chief Master-at-Arms in Bainbridge, Md., and was discharged in December 1945. She returned to her home and job and used the GI Bill to attend the University of Wisconsin–Eau Claire and received a degree in teaching. She taught for thirty-five years and then retired. She is active in various WAVE organizations.

Gustafson, Eleanor Landgraff, 1923–; Reminiscences, 1943–1953, 2 items, 5pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Woodland Hills, Calif., and graduated with honors from Canoga Park High School in 1941. She worked as a bookkeeper for two years before enlisting in the Navy. In August 1943, she headed for Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y., on a train with other new recruits. After basic training she wanted to work in Naval Aviation but qualified for Storekeeper School in Milledgeville, Ga. Her first assignment was at the Armed Guard Disbursing Office on Treasure Island in San Francisco, Calif. Her job consisted of computing pay on the old Merchant calculating machines. Eventually she became a supervisor and was asked to extend her enlistment for six months in exchange for advancement to Chief Petty Officer. She gladly stayed in the service. In 1953 she became a Naval Reservist and was a police officer for a short while. During the Korean War she served in Hawaii at the District Transportation Office booking Navy and commercial flights for the military and their dependents. A Pan Am airline representative saw her working and offered her a job after her reserve responsibilities were completed. She went to work for Pan Am, got married, and spent sixteen years as a reservist. A photograph and interview are included.

Halmstad, Betty Lucille Lawler, 1924–; Reminiscences, 1944–1946, 1 item, 8pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born in Des Moines, Iowa, and raised in Seymour, Mo., where she graduated from Seymour High School as valedictorian in 1942. She worked as a Southern Bell telephone operator before enlisting in the U.S. Navy in 1944. She attended basic training at Hunter College in New York for six weeks and then Link Trainer School at Atlanta Naval Air Station in Georgia. Her first assignment was giving one-hour navigation problems to Navy pilots in the PB-2s at Florida Naval Air Station in Lake City, Fla. Even though this billet was very important and painstaking she did manage to have a lot of fun and a lot of dates. After VJ Day, Florida Naval Air Station closed and all stationed there were moved to Kansas Naval Air Station and retrained in the naval equivalent of B-24s. She was sent to Great Lakes Naval Station for discharge in May of 1946. After the Navy, she went to college, had a family, and went into the civil service. Her barracks roommate married her younger brother and is still one of her best friends. Her experience as a WAVE was exceptionally positive.

Hardisty, Doris Grossini, 1923–; Reminiscences, 1944–1946, 16 items, 3pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in San Luis Obispo, Calif. She graduated from Coast Union High School in Cambria, Calif., in 1942. Enlisted in the Navy in 1944 and attended boot camp at Hunter College where she enjoyed marching and drilling. Was selected to attend Yeoman School in Stillwater, Okla., at Oklahoma A&M. Took classes in typing, shorthand, and history. Was transferred to the Bureau of Ships in Washington, D.C., where she was a top secret typist. Each item she typed was checked by an FBI agent. Was discharged in 1946 at Balboa Park in San Francisco. Attended many WAVE reunions and conventions. Items included are: copy of discharge certificate and forms, copies of photographs, press releases, memo authorizing her to wear the American Campaign Ribbon, security watch bill, and list of enlistees leaving San Francisco to go to Hunter College.

Harrington, Beatrice M. Machott, 1924–; Reminiscences, 1944–1956, 2 items, 7pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born in Boston, Mass., and spent her youth in Roxbury and Dorchester, Mass., where she graduated from Jeremiah E. Burke High School in 1940. Worked for the Selective Service youth program at a draft board and then took the Civil Service exam and qualified. Following Pearl Harbor, she became a Civil Service employee, a clerk-stenographer, working at the Boston port of embarkation for the Quartermaster Corps. She spent long hours supplying ships headed for the UK and Africa. Enlisted in the Navy in July 1944, and went to Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y., for boot camp where she was part of the “Singing Platoon.” Attended Yeoman School in Stillwater, Okla., and was on the sixty-day accelerated program because of her previous experience. Was then stationed at the Submarine Base in New London, Conn., where she worked as a stenographer and instructor. Was one of the first WAVES to be discharged in early 1946, due to her parents’ health. She went back to Boston, joined the Naval Reserve, and under the GI Bill attended Burdett College. Moved to Los Angeles and joined Navy Reserve Division 11-16. In 1954 she took the Navy-wide Chiefs exam. In 1955 she took sixty-day orders as an instructor at the Yeoman School in Bainbridge, Md. Here she met and married her husband, became active in a reserve unit in Baltimore, and obtained a Civil Service job on base. She tried several times to get back on active duty without any luck. Once she became pregnant in 1956, she was discharged. After raising her children, she worked as a secretary and later as a paralegal until she was seventy-three years old. Interview and photograph are included.

Harrison, Peggy Jane, 1923–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 1 item, 3pp.

WAVE in World War II. She spent her youth in Nevada, Ohio, where she graduated from high school in 1941. Enlisted in the Navy in 1943 and attended boot camp at Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y. Her limited time off was spent playing tennis and horseback riding. Was sent to the Hospital Corps School in Cherry Point, N.C., for three months and later assigned to NAS Memphis, Tenn. Here she assisted in the rehabilitation of West Coast sailors after surgery. Was discharged in 1945, married, and had two children. She enjoyed her time as a WAVE.

WAVE in World War II. Born in Berkeley Springs, W.Va., and raised in Hagerstown, Md. Graduated from Hagerstown High School in June 1937. Received a Bachelor's Degree from the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester, Rochester, N.Y., in June 1941, and a Teacher's Certificate from West Virginia University, Morgantown, W.Va. Enlisted in Charleston, W.Va., in November 1942. Had basic training at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., and Communications Training at Mount Holyoke, South Hadley, Mass. Assigned to the Boot Training School at Hunter College, Bronx, N.Y., to run the chorus. Reassigned to Drill and Discipline, then to the Naval Communications Annex in Washington, D.C., in February 1944. Discharged in October 1944 as a Lt. (j.g.). Includes several interesting anecdotes.

Hays, Emma R., 1923–; Reminiscences, 1944–1946, 1 item, 8pp.

WAVE in World War II. Was born in Middleburg, Pa., and graduated from Wernersville High School in 1940. Enlisted in the Navy in 1944 and attended basic training at Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y. After attending aerial gunnery school in Pensacola, Fla., was transferred to NAS Banana River, Fla., where she taught students how to use the Norton Bomb sight. During training she made a bull's-eye at 10,000 feet. She married one of her students in 1945 and was discharged in 1946. After the Navy, she raised a family and was an office worker. She enjoyed the time she spent as a WAVE. She is very active in local and national WAVE organizations. Interview includes a list of qualities one must have to be a good WAVE.

Hayes, Margaret Jean Prefontaine, 1924–; Reminiscences, 1944–1946, 1 item, 3pp.

WAVE in World War II. Was born and raised in Grand Rapids, Mich. She graduated from Central High School in 1943 and attended one year of pre-nursing college at Aquinas College in Grand Rapids. Enlisted in the Navy in May of 1944 and was sent to basic training at Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y., for six weeks. She requested the Hospital Corps and was transferred to USN Hospital Bethesda for four weeks of training. Her first duty station was USN Hospital Philadelphia, Pa. Had nursing duties, such as making beds, emptying bedpans, and giving baths. There she had three roommates with whom she toured the city on days off. Was discharged in 1946 and continued to work in the medical field. She is a member of many WAVE organizations.

Helem, Myrtle L. Beall, 1925–; Reminiscences, 1945–1946, 2 items, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born in 1925 in Vancouver, B.C., Canada, and moved to Seattle, Wash., when she was nine years old. While attending West Seattle High School, she worked in the main post office. In 1943 graduated and took a job as a secretary. Enlisted in the Navy in 1945 and went to Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y., for basic training. Here she was given the duty of mail clerk because of her past experience. After twelve weeks she was told she could go to Ships Post Office. She insisted on the Hospital Apprenticeship training and since her grades were high enough she was able to go to USN Bethesda Hospital for training. Transferred to the Naval Hospital in Seattle, Wash., her hometown. Although she was hoping to see the world, she was excited to be able to go back and see her friends and family. Her job was on the Psychiatric Ward where she would type medical records. Her job was not difficult, but it was boring. Just nine months after she enlisted she was told she could be discharged. She signed on for another six months and was discharged in July of 1946. Joining the WAVES was "The best and most fulfilling thing I ever did for myself." Copies of photographs and interview are included.

Hoyt, Peggy Muriel Sanborn, 1922–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 1 item, 3pp.

SPAR in World War II. She was born in New York City and raised in New England, New York, and New Jersey. Graduated from high school in Englewood, N.J., in 1940 and attended Massachusetts State Teacher's College for two years. She joined the Coast Guard in 1943 and went to Palm Beach, Fla., for boot camp. She was assigned to Ship's Company and taught swimming, physical training, first aid, and Coast Guard history in Palm Beach. Transferred to San Francisco and then to Atlantic City for Radio School. After a brief assignment in Boston, she was assigned to the Rockland, Maine, Coast Guard Base. She enjoyed Rockland and later requested Cape Cod Canal Coast Guard station in order to be closer to her friends and family. From there she was discharged in 1945 and under the GI Bill returned to college at University of New Hampshire. She graduated in 1947 with a B.S. in Science and Physical Education. She married, had children, and taught. She is grateful for the time she spent in the Coast Guard.

Hughes, Helen B., 1918–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 1 item, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Fort Dodge, Iowa. Graduated from Fort Dodge High School in 1938 and enlisted in the Navy in 1943. Chose the Navy because she had four brothers already serving in the Navy and liked the uniform. Attended basic training at Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y., and then went to the National Cash Register Corporation in Dayton, Ohio, to learn code breaking. She was assigned to the Communication Annex in Washington, D.C., where she worked as a code breaker in a top secret office. Was transferred to Great Lakes, Ill., and was discharged in December of 1945. Was sad to leave the Navy and enjoyed the opportunity to serve. Returned to Fort Dodge and still lives there today. She is still active in WAVE associations.

Karls, Josephine, 1920–; Reminiscences, 1943–1944, 2 items, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised in Kenosha, Wis., and graduated in 1940 from Park High School in Racine, Wis. Enlisted in the Navy in 1943 and attended basic training at Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y. Was transferred to Jacksonville, Fla., and needed no additional training since she had worked in a factory prior to enlisting. Worked on engines and was later moved to the flight office. Assigned to Dallas U.S. Naval Air Station. Enjoyed living with so many females since she was raised with seven brothers. Enjoyed serving in the WAVES and still keeps in touch with many of them. A photograph and interview are included.

Krueger, Lola, 1924–; Reminiscences, 1944–1958, 1 item, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born in Castle Rock, Minn., and raised in Randolph, Minn., where she graduated from high school in 1942. Attended Normal School and the University of Minnesota. Enlisted in the Navy in June of 1944 and was sent to basic training at Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y. There she lived in a college dormitory with five other women. Received demerits for rules she was not yet aware of. Wanted to go to Link Trainer School but was sent to Storekeeper School in Milledgeville, Ga., for five months. Was transferred to Cleveland, Ohio, and worked in business and accounts for two years. Then assigned to Great Lakes Naval Station in Illinois for nine months. She worked in files and found it quite boring. She was also required to work on occasional Saturdays and holidays. Served in Naval Reserves in Great Lakes, Ill., for eleven years, three on active duty. Resigned her commission due to the fact that her third child had just arrived and she was told she may have to report for active duty during the Korean War. Was sad to leave the Navy and tried to rejoin the Naval Reserve but was told she would be too old as a Lt. Cdr. She felt she was discriminated against because she had children under eighteen years old. She was able to meet Mildred McAfee at the 50th birthday of the WAVES in Norfolk, Va. She had five children, finished two college degrees, and taught and counseled in junior high and high school.

Lafontsee, Betty Doolittle Belcher, 1920–; Reminiscences, 1942–1944, 30 items, 7pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born in Indianapolis, Ind., and graduated from Shortridge High School in 1938. She attended summer classes at Purdue University for two years. Wanted to enlist as an officer but did not have the four-year college requirement. In October, 1942 enlisted in the first class of enlisted WAVES. Her initial training was in Stillwater, Okla. Training was given in physical education, drill, curriculum, and medical courses. Once on a weekend pass she missed the bus, but a nice man, who happened to be the Governor of Oklahoma, gave her a ride into town. In January 1943 she was given her first orders to the Chief of Naval Operations in Washington, D.C. It took some time for the Operations Office to figure out what to do with the four WAVES because they were not expected. Since housing had not been planned, they were put up in the Roosevelt Hotel. Her first assignment was to be Yeoman to Adm. Oscar Badger. In July 1943 she was assigned to the Joint Logistics Plans Committee, Joint Chiefs of Staff, as Yeoman to Capt. Challenger USN. The group was moved to a secure office with Marine guards patrolling the building twenty-four hours a day. She was the Chief Clerk responsible for getting the place in workable order. Everything was highly classified and top secret. She was working on Overlord, but did not know where or when it would take place. During this time the three WAVES who were working on Overlord were moved to a two-bedroom apartment and were driven by the FBI to and from work for security purposes. There were many nights when they worked through the night. In May 1944 she began to realize the time for Overlord to happen was near but still did not know where. June 5 came and she was thrilled to be a part of the Landing on Normandy. She still feels honored and gets emotional over her duty and time in the WAVES. She was discharged in November 1944 due to pregnancy. She worked many years and raised her children. Items included are copies of photographs, newspaper articles and clippings, WAVE newspaper, Brightwork, December 15, 1942, property and document pass, memos, advancement in rating, and interview.

Leveille, Ruth Helms, 1922–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 25 items, 14pp.

WAVE in World War II. She was born and raised on a farm in Dupont, Wis. In 1929, her family sold their farm and moved to Clintonville. Graduated from Clintonville High School in 1940 and went to work for her father's gas station. She enlisted in March 1943 and went to Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y., for basic training. She ranked high in radio and mechanics and went to Norman, Okla., for mechanic's school. She was part of the silent drill team and enjoyed being able to learn about the airplanes. She was transferred to Naval Air Station Pensacola, then to Whiting Field, where she was the only WAVE on the crew for twin-engine Beech crafts. She also worked on the flight line starting planes for the pilots and cutting off the engine when they returned. She played on the basketball team and made it to the championships in Great Lakes, Ill., but could not attend since the men's team lost. She felt this was discrimination. She requested to go to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, as soon as WAVES were being taken overseas. There she worked on engines and ordnance. She toured the island, swam in the ocean, saw lots of movies, and was engaged to a fellow sailor. She took a hospital ship back to Treasure Island and then a train to Great Lakes, Ill., and was discharged in December 1945. She married, raised two boys, and became an LPN. She enjoyed her time in the Navy and is still involved in various WAVE organizations. Photographs, meal ticket, liberty passes, camera possession, certificate of satisfactory service card, "How to Serve Your Country in the WAVES or SPARS" booklet, and interview are included.

Longo, Margaret, 1923–; Reminiscences, 1943–1945, 1 item, 4pp.

WAVE in World War II. Her growing-up years were spent in Cleveland, Ohio. Enlisted in the Navy on her 20th birthday, April 9, 1943. Her father was reluctant to accept her decision. Attended basic training at Hunter College in Bronx, N.Y., and was assigned to Naval Air Station Dallas, Tex. Worked in aviation and repair splicing broken wing spars. Did not like the barracks at NAS Dallas because there were no window coverings, which forced all the women to dress in the head. Was discharged from Great Lakes, Ill., on July 8, 1944. After the Navy, she raised a family, graduated from high school in 1965, and earned her Certificate of Proficiency in 1967. She is still very happy and proud to have served her country.

McCluskey, Mary Balaban, 1921–; Reminiscences, 3pp., Photos, 4pp., Note, 1p.

WAVE in World War II. Grew up in South Bend, Ind., graduating from Washington High School in 1938. Enlisted in the Navy in November 1942, at Great Lakes, Ill. Attended one month of boot camp at the Iowa State Teacher's College, Cedar Falls, Iowa, where she was one of the first 1000 enlisted WAVES. Sent to Lakehurst NAS, N.J., in January 1943 for three months of Parachute Materiel School. Assigned to the parachute loft at the Opa-Locka NAS, Miami, Fla., as a parachute packer. Promoted to Parachute Rigger First Class. Discharged in October 1945 from Corpus Christi, Tex. Service in the WAVES was a wonderful experience. Continues friendships with five parachute riggers, belongs to WAVES National, and Unit #56 Gulf Coast Dolphins, Venice, Fla. Ms. McCluskey contributed to Ken Schamberg's book, Voices: Letters from WW II.

McDermott, Eunice McConnell, 1921–; Reminiscences, 34pp.

WAVE in World War II. Born and raised in Brooklyn, N.Y. Graduated from James Madison High School, and attended secretarial school. Very involved in volunteer activity in New York City, including working with the NYFD to develop an auxiliary phone system in case of service disruption. Enlisted in 1943 in New York City, Pine Street. Trained at Indiana University for four months, and received rating of Third Class Storekeeper (bookkeeper). Assigned to NAS Alameda, Calif. Worked in the main office of Bases Command, a brand-new command that was the control for sixteen smaller Naval Air Stations around the west. Volunteered time at the Oakland Naval Hospital. Married in February 1945 to a Navy submariner during his transfer from the Atlantic to Pacific Fleet. Achieved rate of First Class Acting Chief. Discharged in June 1945 due to pregnancy. Returned with husband to Groton, Conn. WAVES experience was the most broadening part of her life. Member of WAVES National. This narrative contains much description of life and attitudes during World War II, not only in the Navy but also in civilian New York City and California.

McGoldrick, Marjorie K., 1921–; Reminiscences, 6 items, 96pp.

WAVE in World War II. Born in Portsmouth, Ohio. Graduated from Utica-Washington High School in 1938. Attended Ohio University, Athens, Ohio; and Butler University, Indianapolis, Ind. Attended three weeks of basic training at Hunter College, Bronx, N.Y. Belonged to WAVES chorus. Upon completion of basic training, assigned to Naval Air Technical Training Center (NATTC), Memphis, Tenn., for aircraft engine maintenance training lasting six months. Assigned to NAS Atlanta, Ga., as plane captain. Given honorable discharge November 1945, with rank of AMM2, and Good Conduct Medal. Member of Colonial WAVES.

McIlroy, Doris Shauger, 1922–; Reminiscences, 1 item, 10pp.

WAVE in World War II. Born in Atlantic City, N.J. Raised in the Phillipsburg, N.J., area. Graduated from Phillipsburg High School in 1940. Attended Churchman's Business College in Easton, Pa. Sworn in the Navy in 1942 in Philadelphia, Pa. Started basic training in February 1943, at Iowa State Teacher's College. Remained in Cedar Falls, Iowa for four weeks of Yeoman training. Assigned to the Naval Communication Annex. Lived in WAVE

Quarters B for a month, then moved to new WAVE quarters, across the street from the Annex. Worked recording coded messages, then on decoding. Moved into private housing in 1944. Discharged with the rating of First Class Petty Officer Specialist Q on 7 November 1945. Received the Navy Unit Citation, the American Campaign Medal, and the Victory Medal. Returned to Easton, Pa., with her husband. Belongs to WAVES National, American Legion, the Naval Cryptographic Veterans Association, and Old Dominion WAVES, a local group now defunct. Her time in the Navy was her “big adventure in life” and the reminiscence describes details of Navy life, camaraderie, and social life.

McKenzie, Lucille, 1923–; Reminiscences, 1 item, 7pp.

WAVE in World War II. Born and raised in Brooklyn, N.Y. Graduated from Bushwick High School in 1940. Enlisted on her 20th birthday in 1943 in New York City.
